Dear Sir,

I'm a Japanese general surgeon and interested in Advanced Cardiac Life Support Course. While I was a visiting Trauma fellow at Tulane University School of Medicine in 1991, I had the opportunity to take the ACLS provider course and to complete ACLS instructor course. I was impressed with these excellent teaching method very much. Now I'm engaged in the resident education at several teaching hospitals in Japan. As a matter of fact, many physicians resuscitate the cardiac arrest patient in their own ways. There was no standard CPR method available in my country. Unfortunately, we don't have the educational course like ACLS in Japan. I think we need the unified standard method for CPR. That's why I'd like to start ACLS in my country. Is it possible to start ACLS in Japan? How can I do it? I really appreciate your kindness if you provide me the information in terms of starting ACLS in Japan.

Yours sincerely,

Shigenori Aoki
